Tuition increase anticipated for next two years

Russell O. Smith
Staff Writer

hikes with each increase in the state's funding.
According to David Berg,

The Board of Regents is proposing an 8.5 to 11 percent tuition increase for the 1989-91 school years. This would mean an increase in the amount students pay per credit per quarter from $63 to $80.

The University of Minnesota currently uses a system where the state funding picks up two-thirds of the cost of education and the student picks up the other third.

Student Association President Tim Allison called this system a "Catch 22" because as the legislature appropriates more money for the University, the one-third cost paid by students also increases.

For the coming academic year, the University's administrative staff and the Board of Regents have asked for and will most likely receive an increase in appropriations from the legislature. While this benefits the financial situation of the University, students will be asked to cover the increased costs.

According to a tuition report commissioned by interim University President Richard Sauer, the University of Minnesota's tuition rate is higher than other public education systems in the state. But the report claims these differences are still competitive with other Big Ten schools.

The report also points out that tuition at the University over the past ten years has risen faster than the consumer price index and faster than personal incomes in Minnesota, but the report then makes claims to show the "wisdom of investing in a baccalaureate degree."

According to Allison, "the students have to make their voice heard so that the administration and legislature will have to think up new and creative ways to make a higher education more affordable to the majority of students."

One issue the report did not address was how the funding formula could be changed so students are not subject to tuition assistant to the president, the current funding formula is discriminating to undergraduate students and while the University administration has worked on adjusting it, there has been little legislative support for the idea.

Berg also said that a bill was introduced to gradually lower the percent paid by the students over the next several years to about 25 or 26 percent.

In an issue related to funding, Berg said President Hasselmo intends to increase funding to UMD to account for the increase in the number of students attending the school next year.

The interim report on funding made several recommendations to ease the burden of tuition paid by students.

One recommendation which was rejected by the legislature in 1985, 1987 and 1988 was to lower the percentage paid by students in professional programs.

Because of the demands of professional programs which allow limited time for students to work and receive non-payable student aid, students in these programs often compile staggering amounts of loan indebtedness.

Another recommendation is to eliminate the current banding policy which allows students to take 15 to 18 credits per quarter at no additional charge.

The report also recommended that differential pricing be maintained and cited two reasons for this. First, low cost per credit colleges would subsidize higher cost colleges. For example, a student in the College of Liberal Arts would pay about $275 more per year if differential pricing were abandoned and would, essentially, be taking out loans to pay for someone enrolled at the Institute of Technology, a higher-cost college. Secondly, the cost of a program should relate to expected income. An average IT graduate would expect to make more than an average CLA graduate and so can afford to make a larger investment.

Task force looks at autonomy issues in U of M system

Deb Peterson
News Editor

System-wide changes concerning the autonomy of non-metro campuses began early this year with a call from U of M President Nils Hasselmo to Chancellor Lawrence Ianni. He appointed Ianni, along with the chancellors and the vice presidents from each campus, to a task force that would work out steps granting the campuses more independence in institutional decision-making.

According to Ianni, Hasselmo was interested in developing some changes in governance and administration that he could report at the March meeting of the Board of Regents.

The task force met twice in February to hammer out this report for the Regents in three weeks.

What the report stated was that each chancellor will now have a separate voice to identify their campus needs before a cabinet, but whether budget proceedings will change to give autonomy to each campus in this respect is undetermined, Ianni said on Tuesday.

"The only real change is that chancellors now have a voice," Ianni said. "I think UMD has plenty of autonomy and the only real lack is the absence of a true budget process."

"There are indications that it (the budget proceedings) will be different, but there's no way to tell."

The cabinet, consisting of the chancellors, vice-presidents and the UM President, will meet twice monthly to discuss budgets, Ianni said. A resource committee made up of the vice-presidents of Academic Affairs and Finance and Operations and the University president will have final say over all fund allocations.

The president and the vice-presidents of Academic Affairs and Finance and Operations are also Twin Cities campus administrators which Ianni said he sees as a potential conflict of interest.

The Vice-President of Academic Affairs has responsibilities to all five campuses and is also provost of the Twin Cities campus. The Vice-President of Finance and Operations has system-wide responsibilities as well as a position as controller for the Twin Cities campus. The UM President not only has responsibilities to all campuses, but is also the chief executive officer of the Twin Cities campus.

"To some, it is a great strain on objectivity to have to divide up money for home- and other institutions," Ianni said. "The resource committee was my second choice."

"My first choice would have been to organize differently so that the resource committee were not also the people who administer the Twin Cities campus."

Although Ianni said he was fairly satisfied with the result of the task force, he said he was also hoping for a better budget process.

Ianni explained that the University has no annual process for developing a comprehensive, all-funds budget. The University does not submit a detailed list of spending to the State Legislature, but only gives an amount needed, determined by the university

Printy wants to be the Governor for Minnesotans

Timothy L. Franklin
Kathy Phillips
Staff Writers

David Printy, IR candidate for governor, spoke before a packed Kirby lounge on Wednesday to explain to UMD students why he is running for this position.

Much of his speech centered around jobs and educational issues in Minnesota.

"The future is at risk in Minnesota and the Governor is to blame," Printy said.

He mentioned there recently was a billboard in the Twin Cities area advertising jobs in Alabama. He said this is the type of advertising that really explains where Minnesota is headed.

He said the state currently ranks toward the bottom of the 50 states in the things we pride ourselves on. He said that Minnesota is declining in this area because Minnesota is less competitive in the job market.

Printy also mentioned his concern for education. He pointed out a non-partisan legislative auditor's report from December 1988 that stated that Minnesota's academic standards in high school were too lax.

"The Gov. Rudy Perpich is responsible for this, yet he goes around the country promoting Minnesota's educational system," he said.

He said in Minnesota high school students are given credit for driver education classes, achievement test scores are declining and college admissions are becoming average.

"Here in Minnesota we do not want to become average," he said.

Another issue Printy said he would like to address if elected is the issue of drugs.

He mentioned that we have a chemical dependency program which is recognized nationally, yet we have drug problems right in our own backyard.

"We have all these problems, and he's out in California trying to get the Superbowl. Where are our priorities?" Printy questioned.

The last part of Printy's speech centered around jobs.

He commented on the fact that Control Data laid off 3,100 people last Monday and that there are no jobs in Minnesota for these people.

"We don't have jobs. What will happen when we have an economic downturn?" Printy asked.

He said this is happening because education is not a priority. He also stated that the Governor is trying to increase the budget 16 percent this year and that there is no real increase for education.

"The Governor is losing sight of the people," Printy said.

He finished off his 30-minute speech by saying there is a big difference between running for governor of Minnesota and being governor of Minnesota. He said that he would be the governor for Minnesotans.

Printy's speech was sponsored by the UMD College Republicans.

Ianni from 1A

president, in addition to a base budget request.

"It's like an augmentation request," Ianni said. "There is no explicit allocation of money as yet, but I think having an all-funds budget process would set priorities in order and help in determining how the University is going to spend every dime it gets instead of focusing on what it needs in addition to what it already has in funding."

Ianni said Hasselmo would be using a follow-up report within the next year to see if the changes proposed were implemented successfully.

Olsen's plans include planning in Duluth

Paula Patterson
Staff Writer

Dale W. Olsen, political science professor and director of the Urban and Regional Studies program, has taken a one-quarter leave of absence to do further research on urban development.

Olsen recently presented a paper at the national Urban Affairs Association meeting in Baltimore entitled, "Comprehensive Planning in Declining Cities: The Case of Duluth, Minnesota."

Olsen has been a member of the Urban Affairs Association's governing board for a number of years and has been a member of other planning organizations as well.

The paper was a compilation of research that Olsen has been doing since the 1970s.

"The conference was a way to talk to others in the field who are doing similar research," Olsen said.

Urban planning has always interested Olsen, and he has followed the development of the Holiday Inn Plaza, the skywalks, waterfront development, the Miller Hill Corridor and the Watson development.

Olsen served as the chair for the Miller Hill Corridor Development Plan and believes there is still a strong need for a continuing planning process.

The paper Olsen presented at the conference concerned dealing with a declining population in terms of a changing job nature and what to do with the public schools.

The Board of Regents granted Olsen a single-quarter leave to focus on special research. The Regents' policy provides "that a faculty member holding a single-quarter leave is to be relieved of all regular department, college and university duties during that period."

Olsen plans on researching the comprehensive planning effort versus the incremental plan that Duluth has used in the past.

However, Olsen said that he has not received any type of financial support for his research.

"It has all been from my own resources, but I may have to start looking for financial sources if I want to continue," Olsen said.

MPIRG sets 1990 agenda

Issues include child care, plastics and radioactive waste

Bill Johnson
Staff Writer

MPIRG, a student-funded and directed organization, held its annual "Issues & Actions Day" meeting here on campus, Sunday, April 16. The focus of the statewide meeting was to decide on what issues to work for in the 1990 legislative year.

"It was a very, very important meeting," MPIRG Local Board President Marcelle Caturia said, "and it was really exciting that Duluth got to host this year's statewide meeting."

The meeting began with a welcoming speech given by UMDSA President Tim Allison. After the speech, two MPIRG representatives from each participating college and staff members from the main MPIRG office based in the Cities, narrowed down the list of proposals.

The three main issues, called Legislative Issues, that MPIRG will be concentrating on in their 1990 legislative year are: child care, a statewide ban on plastics and a low-level radioactive waste bill.

The child care bill's main purpose is to help upgrade the type of child care now available and to increase the amount of child care offered to college students. This is MPIRG's main student issue for 1990.

The statewide ban on plastics will concentrate on cutting down and eventually eliminating the amount of plastics used in Minnesota. A ban on styrofoam has already been put in effect by Minneapolis.

The third legislative issue MPIRG will deal with is the problem of low level radioactive waste. As of now, Congress, the EPA and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) wish to eliminate regulation of about one-third of this low-level waste. If these regulations are dropped, low-level radioactive waste will be disposed of like everyday trash. MPIRG's low level radioactive waste bill is in strict opposition with this action.

"I feel it's (MPIRG) really important for the students," Caturia said. "I think these issuess will affect them."

Aside from the Legislative Issues, MPIRG will also concentrate on their Action Issues. These are issues that are still in the forefront of MPIRG's agenda. Action Issues include working with the homeless, a four-year funding program, food irradiation, sustainable agriculture (the use of less chemicals in agriculture) and energy conservation.

MPIRG also has a list of Endorsement and Research Issues on which it will work. A canoe trip and cleaning operation down the Mississippi River is one of the projects MPIRG is endorsing.

"We try to concentrate on the issues on a level of precedence or work needed to be done," Caturia said. "Legislation Issues would be first, then Action Issues, then Endorsement and then Research, but all are important."

MPIRG will start research on the 1990 issues this summer and continue working on them until the end of the next legislative year.

Anishinabe Days here

Timothy L. Franklin
News Editor

The 19th annual Anishinabe Days will be starting this Friday with many events planned, according to Robert Powless, director of the American Indian Studies Department.

On Friday there will be a warm-up with dancing and drums. On Saturday there will be a grand entry at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. with a feast at 5 p.m. On Sunday there will be another grand entry at 1 p.m. and a farewell feast at 5 p.m. A grand entry is an event in which Indians dance in their colors; religious activities also usually take place at this time. All events will take place in the UMD Sports Arena.

According to Powless, Indians from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Canada will be in attendance. He also said that there will be between 15 and 20 drum groups and several hundred dancers.

Last year, the event had roughly 300 dancers from this region. Powless expects 800 people to participate in the events planned for this weekend.

Arlene Kashata, vice president for the Anishinabe student organization, said the main purpose of the event is to "share the Indian culture with other people." Powless added that non-Indians are cordially invited to the events because "one reason why the students hold the event is to increase the understanding between the two cultures."

The students involved in the planning and preparation for the event have put in more than 100 hours in the last month.

The two feasts planned will have a menu centered around Indian specialties. The cooking started on Wednesday and will continue through the weekend. The menu will consist of fry bread, wild rice, an assortment of casseroles, turkey and venison.

Education program merry-go-round is a nightmare to many

Many of us can take a look back at our junior and senior high school education and remember at least one teacher that made a difference. But wouldn't it be nice if we could look back and remember several excellent teachers who cared, made classes interesting and fun and made you really think?

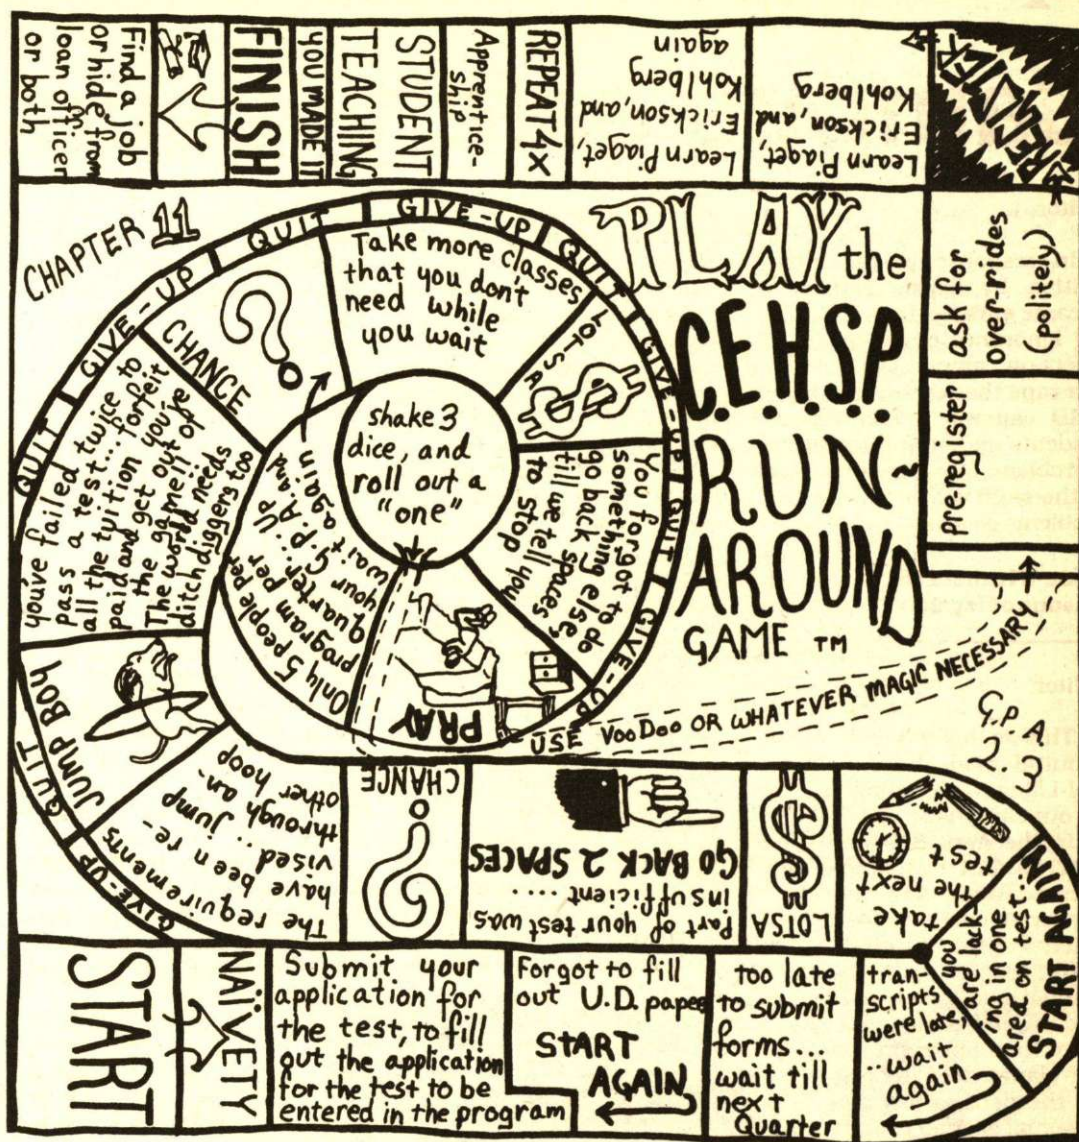

If UMD has anything to do with the future of teachers there won't be many and the ones who do make it through the program at UMD aren't necessarily the best ones.

My advice to any advisor in the education department is to cut out the editorial cartoon located to the right of this column and make copies to hand to incoming freshmen so they know what to expect. In my opinion, nothing better describes what an education major must go through in order to get out of this institution. For example, if you are not a religious person who believes in miracles, you will be after you take the department admission test.

Many students are transferring to other colleges to finish their education after starting at UMD. When students start the education program here at UMD, they are NOT told that the upper division program in this University does not have the faculty to accomodate students wanting to enter the program, and they are NOT told that even if they pass the department admission test they might not be accepted into the program because they only accept five people per program per quarter.

Currently there is a student in the program with a grade point average of 3.8. This student has taken the PPST, passed it with flying colors, but missed passing the department test by ONE POINT both times. This person has been told to either change majors or go someplace else.

In closing, I would like to express my deepest sympathy to those freshmen and even sophomores and juniors who are struggling in the Education Department right now. As a senior, I wish I could tell you that things get better, but they don't. So start fighting for your rights now because when you get up to the point that I am in the ladder, you don't fight for yourself anymore. You fight for the underclassmen like yourself, or you just don't care. I do care; if anyone out there has any ideas, I'll try to help.

Oxfam thanks
UMD Food Service for success

Editor,

As a member of the newly-founded Oxfam committee, I'd like to express my personal thanks and gratitude to all the people who made the lenten fast a success. A special thanks to UMD Food Service and the local grocery stores who participated. The proceeds will be split three ways. A third will go to the Duluth Food Shelf, and the other two-thirds will go to Oxfam America. The committee decided to keep some of the funds local, after requests from students and staff.

The Duluth Food Shelf distributes non-perishable food and other necessities to people in need. The food shelf relies on donations from churches, individuals and fund raisers to survive.

Oxfam America is a non-profit, international agency that funds self-help development and disaster-relief projects in poor countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

Oxfam has two U.S. offices, Boston and San Francisco, and the organization was established in 1970. Unlike many international aid agencies, they neither seek nor accept U.S. government funds.

Their objective is small-scale projects where a few dollars go a long way--projects that set an example or create changes reaching beyond the project itself. Their funds go directly to project partners overseas; they work with them to assess local needs, develop programs and monitor the results.

If you haven't turned in your donation, please turn it in to the Council of Religious Advisors office in Kirby 191 or the Kirby ticket window. If you are interested in being involved in something similar to this in the future, come into the Council of Religious Advisors office or call 726-8737.

Campus safety issue gets attention

Editor,

In response to the letter written by Dalziel-Llanas, I became enraged by her seeming ignorance of the issue of safety on campus. As a victim of a rape that occurred on the UMD campus, I can assure students and staff that this is a problem. Burying our heads in the sand will not make the problems go away.

Name Withheld for reasons of legality

Editor,

This is my rejoinder to a rebuttal made by M.C. Dalziel-Llanas regarding safety on our campus.

In the April 6 issue of the STATESMAN two women addressed "a growing amount of concern" over the issue of safety on this campus. They aptly summed up the need for greater safety measures in and around the campus. It is more than apparent that Dalziel-Llanas does not fully realize the debilitating aftermath of sexual assault and/or rape. I think she should have investigated a significantly larger amount of information about the sensitivity of the subject before putting her head on the block, as it were.

Woman, if you in actuality believe that "hiding" facts (e.g.

that Torrance Hall can be broken into) provides greater security than addressing the matter directly in hopes of procuring better locks, then once again your lack of foresight is tremendously obvious. To address your second "probability," I can only say that whether or not UMD is one of the safest campuses in this nation is not part of the original theme from Blakesley and Shermock's letter. The idea is pointing toward increased security; goading people by telling them to "grow up" or "be tough" is a very ignorant, negative, nonproductive attitude.

Are these the types of things you would say to a rape victim? If you yourself (I know, it always happens to somebody else) were being raped would you "take it like a woman"? Just how tough is somebody expected to be in a situation like that?

I hope you can read this rejoinder with an open mind, realizing that your held opinions are merely social resins left over from your peers and guardians. If you'd like more info regarding these risks we speak of, contact Students Organized Against Rape.

Allan White
Sophomore CEHSP

Editor,

Regarding M.C. Dalziel-Llanas' letter to the STATESMAN concerning safety on the UMD campus, I would like to make a rebuttal to her rebuttal.

Dalziel-Llanas criticized the women who pointed out that Torrance Hall's doors can be "popped open." She stated "that if there were any people who didn't know what locks could be popped open, after their letter everybody would know." Well Ms. Dalziel-Llanas, you just made the same "mistake" you accused these women of. You just told everybody who didn't read the first letter. And of course, now I'm telling all the rest. So there!

These locks as well as many others that can be popped open should be fixed. UMD should listen to these women and fix them. Hiding the fact that they are ineffective is not the right approach to this problem.

You also stated that UMD is probably one of the safest campuses in the nation. Well that may be, but that doesn't mean that there isn't any room for improvement. It doesn't mean that the crime that does happen here is an acceptable amount. NO CRIME is acceptable.

UMD, like many other campuses, has its fair share of crime. Theft, vandalism and sexual assaults are a real problem that must be dealt with by real solutions.

Sexual assault is probably the most serious crime on this campus. Contrary to Dalziel-Llanas' belief, sexual assault is a problem on this very campus and in this very city. There have been some very serious incidents in UMD's recent history. Astonishingly enough, sexual assaults have occurred in UMD's own housing.

These women were right to point out these problems. They even made a few good suggestions as to how to prevent or lower the risk of some of these crimes.

One such suggestion was the use of the UMD Escort Service. This is a free service to women who want a safe walk to or from campus, their car or their apartment or dorm. Located in L139, the office is open Sunday-Thursday from 8-11 p.m.

Founded in 1982 because of a general concern about the growing number of campus assaults, the program has helped reduce the number of campus assaults, while at the same time providing a friendly and courteous service.

All students and faculty are encouraged to use this service, which is endorsed both by the Student Association and the Campus Police.

The Escort Service is run by Alpha Phi Omega--UMD's National Service Fraternity. With the help of the Gamma Sigma Sigma Sorority these men and women volunteer their time five days a week to ensure that the women of UMD are safe. It is a shame more women don't use this service. UMD should be proud of those involved with the Escort Service, as it is the only successful volunteer program of its kind in the country. Those who would like to use the service should simply stop by the office or call 726-6100 and wait for the arrival of an Escort. The Escorts wear uniform jackets for easy identification and carry flashlights. Escorts will even help you start your car or scrape your windshield.

The Escort Service offers the following advice when walking at night:

DO
Walk in groups or with an escort.
Walk in open areas.
Keep to lighted sidewalks.
Let people know where you are going.
Call for Escort Service.

DON'T
Walk in dark areas ALONE.
Walk in heavily wooded areas.
As far as walking five miles in the nude in Duluth, Ms. Dalziel-Llanas, I don't suggest it. You may or may not be assaulted, but you most certainly would be arrested.

Letters from 4A

ular article I became very angry with the unwarranted comments of Brent Wessels in which he stated, "I have many creative ideas. SA needs a new direction--no one running for representative and senate positions shows that."

Brent Wessels, I think your comments were very inappropriate and only show great ignorance on your part! I cannot believe you have the audacity to comment as you did, with all that has gone on in Student Association this year!

The Student Association has made great progress and continues to make great progress; your comments only act to hinder that progress.

When faced with the possibility of semesters we organized one of the largest forums in UMD history to talk with Chancellor Ianni. Brent Wessels, were you there?

When faced with tuition increases we organized students to sign a petition and protest in front of the Board of Regents who were meeting at UMD. This helped students get their point across as there was heavy media coverage from all over the state. Brent Wessels, were you at the protests? Did you help with the petition?

When lobby day rolled around this spring many of our student leaders took a day off of classes and traveled to St. Paul to meet with state legislators and discuss student issues that deeply concern students at UMD. Brent Wessels, were you in St. Paul?

Brent Wessels, if you answered "no" to all of these questions, then I think it is you who needs to re-think your position on the direction of Student Association. Either way, you are the person who seems to have overstepped his "choice of words" to describe your candidacy for SA President! The three areas that I touched on are only a few areas in which Students Association has worked to help make campus life better for the students at UMD.

Finally, Brent Wessels, who gives you the authority or knowledge to judge the positions of the candidates for representatives and senate? You don't even know some of these candidates. To make such a judgement about their character and integrity for the sake of votes is disgraceful and bad politics! I have been an SBE Senator for a year and my position, "for the record," is "full steam ahead Student Association" because we are headed in the right direction for UMD students. The "new direction" that you, Brent Wessels, talk about is "turn around and go backwards, to the docks." We have made great progress, and I hope we can continue to make progress in the future!

Familiar face on campus is also creative writer

Sabrina Hymel
Staff Writer

As a word processing instructor at UMD, Laurie Skiba is a familiar face around campus. But besides helping freshmen learn the basics of Visiword, she also writes and publishes fiction.

Skiba is a graduate student pursuing her master's degree in English Literature and has been teaching at UMD for two and a half years. She earned her undergraduate degree from the College of St. Catherine, which she credits with providing her with a good background in creative writing.

"What was nice about that," she said, "was that I got to concentrate almost exclusively on creative writing and fiction."

"St. Kate's is part of a five-college consortium where, once you use up all the time with one professor (there), they just send you to St. Thomas, Macalester, Hamline or Augsburg."

While at St. Catherine's, Skiba worked as an assistant in the English Department, where she met and studied with successful, visiting authors.

"I think I learned more with those tutorials than anything else," she said. "I'd get to take Kelly Olson around campus or arrange lunch with Toni Morrison."

Skiba has been a busy writer, but admits that she'd like to see more of her work published.

"It's not as much as I'd like to have at this point," she said.

One of Skiba's early works is a novel she describes as "experimental."

Although Laurie Skiba is well known at UMD as a word processing instructor, her interest as a graduate student is in fiction writing.

"People still don't know what to really think of it," she said. "It's a very interior (and) psychological piece."

According to Skiba, "The main character is trying to figure out the difference between truth and the imagination. If you believe something, does that make it less true than if it's factual?"

"I got lots of nice letters back from people, but they didn't want to touch it," she said.

Skiba has also written numerous short stories which were "near hits" with larger magazines.

"Last October, I had a short story published in a literary magazine called Shenandoah that had been tentatively accepted at McCalls," she said.

"The editor-in-chief (at McCalls) decided that they couldn't take it because the protagonist was 76 years old, and their readers could not relate to this woman," she said. "Ironically, the story is about a woman who is having (the) problem where younger people can't understand her."

"Diane Arbus Eyes," a short story by Skiba published last May in a literary magazine called The Other Side, was held at Mademoiselle for over a year.

The story tells of a graduate student who must choose between a successful career in a law office and pursuing her writing.

"I would revise it up to the point where I was compromising my own work," she said. "They let the story go because they didn't think that their average reader would do what that woman does at the end of the story."

Since then, "Diane Arbus Eyes" has been nominated for a Pushcart prize, a yearly anthology of works from literary presses. Skiba has also received offers from literary agents interested in representing her work.

In addition to fiction Skiba has also published articles on Christian feminism, assertiveness training and the rights of the disabled. She also gave a seminar at the Minnesota Banker's Association annual convention last year.

Balancing her time between teaching, classes and writing isn't easy, Skiba said.

"Teaching seems to work out pretty well with writing, but you can't do teaching, get a master's degree and write a novel at the same time. I'm finding that's a little bit tough," she said.

"I'm not doing half the writing I'd like to right now because of all the master's papers I need to do," she added. "I've got all these short stories I think about constantly, (but) the novel is really important to me, too."

Skiba thinks aspiring writers should sample a variety of academic disciplines to provide a good base for writing.

"When I was starting out, my advisors and mentors would send me around and make sure I took astronomy, the Bible as literature and all sorts of things like that," she said. "Once you really start having a broad base to write from, (writing) comes a lot more naturally."

Extensive reading and inviting criticism of their works can also help writers, Skiba added.

"Do all the reading you possibly can to decide for yourself what you like and why," she said. "Have people look at your work, too, and just tell what they think about it."

"You don't always have to take that advice, but at least you can see where other people are coming from," she said.

KPB hosts Spring Fling to kick off dance

Kim Gervais
Staff Writer

Shake those winter blahs and help Kirby Program Board celebrate the first annual Spring Fling week April 24-29.

Spring Fling week was originated by Kirby Program Board this year in hopes to get the students of UMD involved in various activities one last time before the end of the school year.

According to Cindy Mensing of Kirby Program Board, "We wanted something like Homecoming and Winter Carnival week during Spring Quarter also. We contacted various student organizations on campus about the idea, and they really went for it."

"Kirby Program Board is sponsoring its third annual Spring Affair dance at Greysolon Plaza on April 29, so we thought it would be fun to celebrate the entire week with different activities and end the week with the semiformal dance," Mensing added.

According to Kris Vickerman of Kirby Program Board, "Kirby Student Center has a great terrace outside of Kirby hall, and we thought it would be really fun to plan the activities outdoors to help the students get into the spring spirit."

The student organizations that will be co-sponsoring the activities with Kirby Program Board include the UMD Communication Club, the UMD History Club, the UMD Leadership Council, Rec Sports and Alpha Phi Omega.

The week will kick off with the Stuff Your Face Race on Monday, April 24, at noon in the Kirby Lounge. The contest will be a race to see who can eat the most of the designated foods in the shortest amount of time. The event is sponsored by the UMD Communication Club.

Tuesday will be a busy day during the week with three events going on. At noon the UMD History Club will be sponsoring the Best Legs Contest in the Kirby Lounge. According to the club, the legs do not necessarily have to belong to a human being.

Tuesday night will be a big night for events. Kirby Program Board will be sponsoring its first Outdoor Movie Night. The movie Caddyshack will be shown outside on the Kirby Terrace starting at 8:00 p.m. If weather does not permit the movie will be moved to the Bull Pub. Admission is only $1.

The UMD Leadership Council will be sponsoring the Battle of the Bands on Tuesday night, also. The show will include various local bands battling it out for charity. The show will start at 8 p.m. and will take place in the Kirby Ballroom until midnight.

Wednesday will be a unique day for events. Kirby Program Board will be sponsoring a Performing Arts

Help UMD get rid of this cold weather once and for all! Celebrate Spring Fling week with UMD and show your 90 degree spirit!

Show. The show will take place outside on the Kirby Terrace from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The show consists of any performing artists out there who want to display their talent.

There will also be a book display by the Second Edition Book Store, concessions and various other attractions. Performing artists can sign up in the Kirby Program Board office.

Alpha Phi Omega will also be sponsoring an event on Wednesday on the Terrace. This will be a Keg Toss which will run from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Lectures Committee will host a lecture entitled "Why the South Won the Civil War" Thursday night starting at 7:30 p.m. in the Rafters.

Friday's event will be a Pie Throw at your favorite (or most hated) Rec Sports people. The event will be held on the Kirby Terrace from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The week will end on Saturday, April 29, with the third annual Spring Affair Semiformal dance at Greysolon Plaza. The dance will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and will feature live music from The Gomers. Hors d'oeuvres and punch will be served, and there will be a cash bar available with a legal I.D.

Tickets for the Spring Affair are on sale starting April 24 in Kirby. The cost is $6 for singles and $10 for couples.

Help UMD get rid of this cold weather once and for all!

Fall Registration Information

Registration materials are available beginning April 10 for Fall Quarter in the college offices.

Registration begins on April 24, by assigned times, for currently and previously enrolled students. Adviser's signature is required, as well as the Registration Status Notice in order to register. No cancel-add is allowed.

Open registration for currently and previously enrolled students is from May 15 to June 9. Cancel-add is allowed at this time.

All holds must be cleared before students can register.

CEHSP

Fall Quarter registration materials for CEHSP will be available in the Student Affairs Office, BohH 113, beginning April 10. Registration Status Notices can be picked up at the advisers' offices during student advisement appointments. Students must have their course enrollment request forms signed by their adviser. The signed CER form and RSN must be presented at the time of registration. Advisement week is April 17-21. Students on academic probation are reminded that they must obtain a hold release in BohH 113 before they will be allowed to register.

CLA

Students may pick up a class schedule in Cina 109 beginning April 10. Your Registration Status Notice and other material will be given to you by your adviser or at your major departmental office. If you do not know who your adviser is, check with CLA-SA in 109 Cina. Adult special students will pick up their materials in Cina 109. Your adviser or major department must sign or stamp your course enrollment request form before you register. Remember, your Registration Status Notice must be presented at registration.

Adviser Schedule:

Seniors and Juniors - April 17-21

Sophomores - April 24-28

Freshmen - May 1-5

Students are reminded that Upper Division papers must be filed with CLA-SA before completing 105 credits or a hold will be placed on your registration.

CSE

Students with 105 or more credits completed prior to Spring Quarter must have filed Upper Division papers in order to register. If you have not filed, you will see the following message in the HOLD box: DCSE-UD-134 Engr. Remember, do not expect to see your adviser without an appointment, the Registration Status Notice is required to register, and you need your adviser's signature on the course enrollment request form.

Advisement Schedule:

April 13-14: Pick up materials outside HH 108.

April 17-May 12: Materials will be in Engr 140.

One week in advance of registration date, make an appointment with your adviser.

SBE

Pick up registration materials beginning April 10 in SBE 104, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Advisement week is April 17-21 for faculty advisement appointments. Advisement is obligatory for accounting, pre-accounting, undecided and SSP students. Advisement is optional for business administration and pre-business students. Peer advisers are available to meet with freshmen and sophomores in SBE 104 from April 20 to May 5. Sign up on the bulletin board next to SBE 104.

Fall 1989 SBE graduates who have been cleared for graduation will be given priority registration for SBE classes only if they hand in an enrollment form to Kora Cavanaugh by April 13. Approved grad plans are due by April 6. Winter 1989 SBE graduates wishing to pre-register for their final SBE classes for Winter Quarter must have an approved grad plan on file in SBE 104 by September 29.

SFA

Students may pick up Fall Class Schedules and registration information in H 212 beginning April 10, 1989. Registration begins on April 24. Registration Status Notices must be presented at the time of registration. Students must see their adviser before they will be allowed to register. Advisers must sign the student's course enrollment form and the advisement hold (03) must be removed. Advisement week is from April 17-21.

Upper Division papers must be filed before completing 105 credits or a hold will be placed on your record, and you will not be able to register. Pick up the Upper Division papers in the SFA Dean's Office, H 212.

It is campus policy that students must successfully complete the lower division composition requirement prior to being admitted to the Upper Division. All freshmen must register for composition in the quarter assigned during their first UMD registration. Students who have not completed Comp 1110 will not be permitted to file Degree Requirement Forms.

Students seeking teacher licensure should be sure to note the requirements listed on page 67 of the 1987-89 Bulletin.

Rape Awareness Week

Students Organized Against Rape (SOAR) is a group that exists to increase awareness of acquaintance rape in the UMD community and to facilitate healthy steps in stopping such incidents.

On Tuesday, April 25, in Cina 308 at 10 a.m. there will be a panel discussion on "Prosecuting Date Rape." The discussion is open to all interested persons.

There will be tables in the Kirby hallway from April 24-27 for more information on rape, the organization and membership. Students Organized Against Rape is sponsored by the Women's Resource and Action Center.

Planning Conference

The Third Annual Minnesota Planning Students Conference will be held on Friday, April 28, in the Kirby Ballroom beginning at 9:30 a.m. Guest speakers will be Thomas Cotruvo of the Duluth City Planning Business Development Dept. and John Scott, Duluth architect. Students will present research papers, visit the Marine Museum and bowl at the Incline Station. Admission to the conference is $5. Lunch will be served in the Kirby Ballroom for $5 and for those attending the pizza party the cost is also $5 which must be paid to the Geography Department by April 24. For more information call 723-3326 or 723-8163.

Graduating Seniors

Graduating seniors: Check the student affairs office in your college unit for your name listing in the commencement program. Also, check your name for honors in the commencement program. The deadline to review this is Friday, April 21.

Spring Tuition

Students who have not yet paid their Spring Quarter tuition must do so by the end of Spring Quarter, May 19, 1989, or they will be eligible for collection action. The University will collect all outstanding tuition accounts. Final collection action will result in listing accounts in conciliation court or placing accounts with collection agencies. A hold will be placed on your records and you will not be allowed to register for Fall Quarter. If you have any questions go to Window 15 or 16, first floor, DAdB.

Wolf Series

Part one of the wolf series will be held on Thursday, April 20, at 7 p.m. in LSci 175. The series is called "Wolves of Glacier National Park." Diane Boyd, wolf biologist, will show and tell the story of the wolves. The cost is $2 for UMD students and $3 for all others. For more information call the Outdoor Program at 726-7169.

Spring Walks

A Spring Walk will take place on Tuesday, April 25, from noon to 1 p.m. Explore the unfolding season with a naturalist on an informal walk around campus. Meet at the Outdoor Program office. The walk is free. For more information call 726-7169.

Accounting Club Banquet

Academic awards and scholarships will be featured at the annual Accounting Club banquet on April 28 at 5:30 p.m. at the Radisson. UMD accounting alumni as well as community accounting professionals are invited to attend. For details call 726-7996.

Biology Seminar

Debra Ann Dunlop of the University of New Hampshire will give a biology seminar on "Biosystematics of the Carex Scirpoidea Complex, Section Scirpiniae," on Thursday, April 20, at 3 p.m. in Chem 200.

Spring Commencement

Faculty are asked to send their commencement form, stating that they plan to attend the spring commencement exercises on May 20, to Ellen Hornat, 420 DAdB, by May 1.

Graduate School

Graduate students please be advised that the early Fall Quarter registration does not pertain to you, it is only for undergraduates. Graduate students will register for Fall Quarter Aug. 14-Sept. 1. At that time you will be able to obtain your registration materials in the Graduate School Office, 431 DAdB.

Birdwalk

Rise and shine . . . the day is calling. Identification and natural history of Duluth area birds. A pleasant morning walk is scheduled from 6-8 a.m. Binoculars and transportation will be provided. The walk is free! Meet at the Kirby Circle Overpass. For more information call 726-7169.

Prediction Run

Rec Sports is sponsoring a prediction run. You predict how long it will take you to run a three-mile course! The run is May 4 at 6:30 p.m., and the cost is $6.50 if you register before the run and $8 if you register on May 4. For more information call 726-7128.

Spring Triathlon

Sign up for the triathlon before May 4. The course begins at 3:30 p.m. at the RHDC on May 5. The cost is $4 per person or $6 per team. The course consists of three exercise events. For more information call 726-7128.

□□□ LINGUISTICS at UMD □□□

The College of Liberal Arts offers a Minor and a range of courses in Linguistics.

What is Linguistics? Language is at the root of every human interaction. Societies define themselves by the language they use, and social needs define language. When people command machines such as computers, they use a language. And when people seek to manipulate other people, they use language. Language is a tool, an outlet for emotions, a vehicle for thought, and even a weapon. Linguistics is the study of language: how it is made and learned, how it is structured, and how it changes in response to human and social changes.

Please take note of the following chances to learn more about human language:

Hard hitting 'Dogs open home season

Tom Coombe
Sports Writer

The UMD Bulldog Baseball team will play their first home games this Friday and Saturday when they tangle with Winona State. There will be double-headers on both days starting at 1:30 p.m. Friday and noon on Saturday at Bulldog Park. The Bulldogs opened NIC play last weekend by taking three of four contests from the Northern State Wolves in Aberdeen, S.D.

"We played good, solid baseball the entire weekend,"

Coach Scott Hanna said. "We hit really well and our defense was excellent, making just one error. Anytime you can win three out of four on the road you have to be happy."

Winona State is the defending NIC champion, and Coach Gary Grob has several outstanding ballplayers returning from his 36-18 1988 club which advanced to the NAIA World Series. The Warriors swept perennial Division II powerhouse UW-Oshkosh Monday, and they opened conference play last weekend by sweeping four games from Southwest State.

"Winona is absolutely the best team that we'll face in Duluth all season," Hanna remarked. "They have many of their best players back from last year, and we'll have to play excellent baseball, the kind of baseball we played last weekend, to win."

The Bulldog baseball machine was in high gear in Aberdeen. They blasted Northern State 18-2 and 17-1 on Friday. On Saturday Northern rebounded to take the opener 7-5 while UMD took the nightcap 11-1. The 51-run weekend outburst raised the team batting average to a sizzling .311.

Friday's winning pitchers were Brian Zadro and Dennis Karp, and John Eibs was credited with the victory in Saturday's second contest.

The Bulldogs offense has been led thus far by Karp. The junior from Carlton is batting .480 with three home runs and 25 runs batted in (RBI). Mike Webb and Lonny Hickey are also swinging hot bats, with averages of .444 and .415, respectively. Jeff Kaldor has five home runs and 15

RBIs, Dennis Angellotti has five home runs and 10 RBIs and Garret Salonen has added three home runs with nine RBIs. This diversity of offensive leadership has been one thing which has pleased Hanna thus far.

"We've had a great team effort so far," Hanna said. "We don't have any superstars. We just have a bunch of different guys who can contribute and that work very hard. They've played solid baseball and could have had a sweep last weekend if it weren't for one bad inning."

Junior pitcher Kelli Ritzer stifled Northern State hitters yesterday morning by throwing a one-hit, 10-0 shutout. Teammate Sherri Schmidt followed Ritzer's performance by throwing a two-hit, 6-0 shutout herself. The Bulldogs host Moorhead State University tomorrow afternoon for a double-header at the Junction Field.

to 36 straight games yesterday afternoon by shutting down Northern State in a doubleheader, 10-0 and 6-0.

The two Bulldog pitchers, junior righthander Kelli Ritzer and junior righthander Sherri Schmidt, gave up a total of three hits during the two games, with Ritzer getting the one-hitter and Schmidt the two-hit gem.

Kelli Hyde (see Page 3B) and Paula Sweeney each had two hits for the Bulldogs, with Sweeney also knocking in two runs.

Kathy Rollins provided the hitting for UMD in the night (afternoon) cap, delivering two of the Bulldogs' nine total hits.

UMD already was enjoying another successful week before yesterday's action, as they have now won seven of the past eight games they've played.

The Bulldogs, 19-4 overall and 6-0 in the Northern Sun Conference, are ranked seventh by the NAIA.

Last Thursday the Bulldogs extended their conference winning streak to 34 games with a sweep of Bemidji State.

UMD won the first game 10-2 behind Ritzer's (who was also the winning pitcher) two hits and three RBIs. Patty Becker, Kelli Heid and Ann Patet contributed with two hits each.

In the second game Brenda Brozik, who went three for three with four RBIs, led the Bulldogs to a 5-2 victory over the Beavers. Heather Pfingsten was the winning pitcher.

The Bulldogs were in Austin, Minn., over the weekend for a pair of nonconference double-headers.

TRACK & FIELD

Men's and Women's Track teams are back in action this weekend.

The ladies go south to St. Paul this Saturday where they will compete in the Hamline Invitational, while the men take off to Northfield, Minn., on Friday and Saturday for the Carleton Relays.

Last Saturday both Bulldog teams were in St. Paul for a meet at Hamline University.

The ladies placed third overall in a field of five teams including Gustavus, Winona State, UW-River Falls and host Hamline University.

The ladies fared much better than their score showed, netting seven first-place finishes.

Jill Cox and Dianna Olson led the way for the lady Bulldogs as they each took the top honors in two events. Olson finished first in the 800- and 1,500-meter events while Cox topped the 100 and 200.

Other firsts for the ladies including Joan Weinzierl in the 400 and Jodi Swenson in the high jump and the 1,600-meter relay. Krista Holmstrand put out a great effort, finishing second in the shot put for UMD.

On the other side of the competition with 120 points in first place.

The lone gold winner for the Bulldog men was Paul Nisius who took the top in the steeplechase. He was followed by teammate Steve Evers who finished second.

Other top placers for the Bulldogs include a second-place finish for Nick Madison in the 5,000, a silver for Kurt Salzi in the 10,000 and a number two placing for Dave Geleneau in the triple jump. The UMD 1,600 relay team also came in second.

The UMD men will go on to host their first home meet of the outdoor season in two weeks when they host the Bulldog Open at Griggs Field on Saturday, April 29. The ladies will be in St. Paul that same weekend for the Macalester Invitational.

If you are like a lot of the Minnesota Twins fans in Duluth and the surrounding area, you are probably a little more than ticked off with the cable television company that conducts its business in Duluth.

Deeming the whole project too expensive, our friends at Bresnan Communications are not picking up the usual bunch of Twins games that we see every season.

WCCO out of the Twin Cities carries over 60 Twins games during the regular season, but the people up here in the great Northland can't see a single one. It seems kind of strange that fans just 150 miles from Minneapolis can't see their own team. After all, they are the Minnesota Twins not the Minneapolis Twins.

There are a few ways that we can deal with this problem. First of all, every person that would like to see the Twins on cable could write to Bresnan and tell them that it would be a good move for them to pick up the Twins. A second option would be to tell that lovely cable company that you are going to drop your subscription since there is nothing left to watch, especially if the Twins aren't on. If these people aren't out to serve the public then all they are is what we have feared all along--a bunch of greedy, money-hungry capitalists.

Without the viewing public these cable TV owners don't have a business or a livelihood. We can have the Twins if we really want to get them. But if people don't stop complaining and start doing something about it, there will never be any positive results. You can't win a fight without any hands.

If you really want to see the Twins on cable this year like I do, write a letter or give our lovely cable company a call. Maybe with a little pressure these guys will do what the public wants for once. But remember if no one lifts a finger to do something about the situation, nothing will get done.

The UMD Women's Golf team, one that is barely a year old, has taken the surrounding golf teams by surprise as they took a fifth place finish at the Winona Invitational last weekend.

"We were pleased with how we played," Sarah Elton, fourth place finisher in the individual competition, said. "Finishing fifth out of eleven teams was great!"

Coach Karen Stromme couldn't agree more.

"I was very pleased. Everyone would probably say that they could have played better, but Sarah's second day she hit an 82 which is a great score," Stromme said.

Stromme also commented on player Debbie Stocke who finished fifth individually in the competition with an 88-87-175.

"Debbie had a 38 on the front nine the first day and then came back and didn't have a great back nine," Stromme said.

UMD's top individual finisher Elton said teammates Kim Maki and Meg Stoneking played excellent during the two-day competition.

"Everyone improved from the first to the second day," Elton said. "Some knocked off seven strokes and even more, which is a great improvement."

Maki finished the course with 100-97-197 while Stoneking had 102-93-195.

Teams placing ahead of the lady Bulldogs were Mankato State with 698, Winona State at 705, St. Cloud with 719, Brian Cliff 737 and UMD's overall team score was 739.

The teams next encounter on the course will be at the Country Club in Mankato.

"Although we felt we had the potential to do better at Winona," Stromme said, "we have never been in that heavy position before, and as all teams do now, we have the potential to win a meet."

UMD still has a disadvantage compared to other teams as they have not had much practice time thanks to Mother Nature.

"We were the only team at Winona's competition that did not have an open course from where we are at," Stromme said. "We came right from the snow."

"I was really pleased with how every player didn't dwell on the fact that it was early in the season, and we didn't get any course time in," Stromme said. "They had great attitudes and were positive; I think that is a great indication of where we are going as a team."

Bulldog profile

This is the third in a series of player profiles on seniors from the NAIA Runner-up Bulldog Softball team.

Kelli Heid, a senior from Spring Lake Park, Minn., has started at first base for three straight years after splitting time at the position her freshman season. . . led the Bulldogs offensively last season with a .400 batting average. . . holds the single-season (307) and career record (715) for put-outs. . . was named to the all-conference and all-district team in 1988. . . throws right-handed and bats left-handed. . . feels her strength is hitting and would like to get back on track after a slow start at the plate. . . would like to see the team return to the national tournament. . . enjoys playing with such talented players in keeping UMD's winning tradition alive. . . likes to attend Twins baseball and North Stars hockey games and participate in nearly any type of outdoor activity. . . idolizes fellow teammate Ann Patet for her relaxed approach to the game and life itself. . . attended Spring Lake Park High School where she played softball. . . will graduate this spring with a degree in early child care and development. . . hopes to find a job teaching preschool in the Minneapolis area before getting married. . . Coach Bill Haller said, "Kelli came to us as a pitcher, but was switched over to first base. She has worked very hard to become an all-conference first baseman. Her hard-swinging bat has solidified the middle of our lineup."

tory total of 22 by beating three teams last week--two in the Bulldog Tennis Open.

On Wednesday St. Cloud State took six matches to three sets before falling to UMD 8-1 for the second time this year.

Captain Chris Janowiec needed only two sets to win 6-3, 6-2 as did sophomore Doug Johnson who won 6-4, 6-2. Sophomore Jared Roy and freshman Chad Janowiec rebounded from first set losses to win 3-6, 6-2, 6-2 and 5-7, 7-5, 6-1 respectively. Roy, at 20-4, teamed with Johnson to take the lone tie-breaker of the match, winning 6-2, 4-6, 7-6. Freshman Steve Roach lost his first match of the year 6-3, 6-4 but rallied with Chad Janowiec to win second doubles 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

The Bulldog Women's Tennis team trounced Northern State last Friday as the six singles players lost only nine games between them.

Tierney Bartell and Jackie Tok shut out their opponents while improving their records to 7-2, and Lisa Kottke gained her team high eighth win, losing only one game. Tok completed a perfect match by teaming with Kottke and winning third doubles 6-0, 6-0. Dawn Hable and Deb Neilsen both improved to 6-3 as each won in singles and doubles. The 7-3 women host Moorhead State and Concordia College this weekend before traveling to St. Cloud State next Tuesday.

Softball from 1B

Iowa handed the Bulldogs their fourth loss of the season in Saturday's first game. Northwestern's seven first-inning runs proved to be too much for the Bulldogs as they lost the opener 7-3.

Brozik and Becky Williams each had two hits in the loss, but UMD gained a split with a 4-2 victory in game two.

Unbeaten freshman Julie Espe pitched a three-hitter and struck out seven, improving her record to 5-0. Paula Sweeney had an RBI triple, Rochelle Cooney an RBI double and Heid a two-run single for the Bulldogs.

Strong pitching performances from Ritzer and Pfingsten led to a double-header sweep of Morningside College on Sunday.

UMD won the first game 5-3 on Ritzer's two-hitter and Schmidt's game-winning hit. Pfingsten, 5-0, tossed a five-hitter in leading UMD to a 6-3 victory in game two. Heid had a three-run double to pace the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs remain busy with a full schedule of upcoming games. The team plays Moorhead State in a nonconference double-header tomorrow before heading to the North Dakota State Invitational tournament this weekend.

Tradition on First Street

Toni Mowbray
Staff Writer

What is the First Street Gang, anyway? First Street Gang is a group that organizes teams for Rec Sports intramurals and sponsors some major fundraising events.

Billy Puchner, president of the First Street Gang, said the club was started 20 years by a group of UMD students from Minnetonka, Minn., who felt there were no quality fraternities represented at UMD.

According to Puchner, this is the club's 20th year, and it is going strong with 45 members, not counting the rather large following of First Street wanna be's.

The club was named for the house the original members lived in that was located on First Street.

Secretary of the organization, Troy Martin, feels that First Street has really cleaned up their act in the last couple years.

"First has had a bad reputation in the past as just a drinking and partying organization," Martin said. "But we have organized ourselves."

Contrary to popular belief the First Street members are, for the most part, responsible hard-working students. This year five of their members also sit on the UMD Student Association board.

The money this organization raises through parties and raffles goes mainly for Rec Sports entrance fees and partial payment for the club's stylish jackets and jerseys.

First Street prides itself on being involved in all Rec Sports intramurals.

"Our increase in popularity has made us a lot of enemies," Puchner said. This has occurred mostly because of their high level of competition.

The First Street Gang in Duluth has helped to charter their organization in two other schools--Mankato and UW-Stout.

This organization has proved to be tough competition in the past and they plan to continue their tradition of excellence.

Indoor soccer just got hotter

Lee Sjoquist
Staff Writer

Interested in the fastest, most competitive game in town? Well turn up your burners for the UMD Soccer Club's sponsored Spring Turf Classic indoor soccer tournament, which will take place next weekend, April 28-30.

Some of the best club teams in the five-state area will be competing, including South Dakota State University, North Dakota State University, UW-Stevens Point and UW-River Falls.

The tournament, in which 16 teams are entered, will be a round robin format with games beginning Friday at 6 p.m.

There are two openings in the tournament for anyone at UMD who wants to form a team. Cash prizes of $150 and $100 will be awarded for 1st and 2nd place, respectively. Entry fee per team is $65, and you can call Joe at Rec Sports at 726-7128 for more information. Feelin' pretty confident about your team's chances? Give ole' Joe a call to find out more!

Graduation from aerobics to supervisor

Jay Faherty
Staff Writer

For those of you who do not know the Rec Sports supervisor pictured on this page, you have less than a month to meet her.

Lisa Konn, a five-year veteran of Rec Sports, will be graduating in May, undoubtedly leaving behind many good memories.

Konn, a communication major and business administration minor, became involved with Rec Sports as a freshman aerobics instructor and continued her involvement during her years at UMD.

She has been an equipment room attendant, a weight room attendant, a clerical assistant and a public relations director in her years with Rec Sports.

This year she became the supervisor for Life Fitness, her duties including familiarizing weightroom attendants, lifeguards and other workers with the policies and rules of Rec Sports.

In addition to this Konn also has the normal hours of a supervisor, which is one night a week plus every third weekend, along with one office hour each day and other special meetings.

The duties of a Rec Sports supervisor include facilities supervision, dealing with emergencies and trying to control the intramural programs.

And even though Konn felt this was "one of the best times I've ever had," there were some drawbacks.

Due to increased participation there were some very late activities during Winter Quarter. For example, sometimes ice hockey games would not be finished until 2 a.m.

Further, Konn had to deal with many "hotheads" from programs who feel their group is superior.

And even though one will not become a millionaire working for Rec Sports, the experience gained can not be measured monetarily.

But this Golden Valley, Minn., (Armstrong High School) native is strong to miss working with all the people in Rec Sports and hopes that anyone interested in it will get involved.

Most importantly, Konn feels she has grown both as a person and as a leader through working with Rec Sports.

"I've had the chance to add something of myself to the programs. I feel like I have been able to make a difference," Konn said.

So what are you waiting for? Head down to Rec Sports and see her in action before it's too late!

Memorial service

A memorial service will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, April 21, in the Kirby Rafter for Eric Brodin and Paul Thompson, two UMD students recently killed in an automobile accident.

A get-together for all those attending will follow the service at the home of the deceased roommates at 1839 Woodland Ave.

Brodin, 22, of Burnsville, Minn., and Thompson, 19, of Zumbrota, Minn., drowned early Saturday, April 8, when Brodin's car slid into the Spruce River. Another passenger, Greg Leahy, 20, of Prior Lake was injured in the accident.

Brodin was a respected Rec Sports official of two years.

GUIDES!

Applications for 1989-90

The Admissions Office is looking for responsible, enthusiastic students with good communication skills to serve as Admissions Office Tour Guides for the 1989-90 school year.

Campus tours are given to prospective students and parents or campus visitors, Monday through Friday at 10:00 a.m. and at 2:00 p.m. as well as periodic special events. Tours last approximately one hour and are made up of groups from 1 to 12 people. A position as an Admissions Office Tour Guide enhances your ability to meet a wide variety of people and strengthen your leadership skills. Tour Guide training will start this spring, so get an application soon. All students at UMD are eligible to apply.
